Where Key's Flag Floated.

Plans are now being made for placing in position the tablet which was recently received at Fort McHenry, and which is to mark the spot upon which the flagpole stood from whose lofty top the national colors floated during the night of September 13, 1814, inspiring Francis Scott Key's stirring Star-spangled Banner.

The tablet was cast at the instance of the Government and is of bronze from the design of Francis B. Wheaton, advisory architect of the Quartermaster General's Department. The inscription on it reads as follows:

The national ensign which inspired Francis Scott Key to write, The Star-spangled Banner, was, during the bombardment of Fort McHenry, September 13, 1814, flying from a pole occupying this position.

HOME ENDORSEMENT.

Hundreds of Louisa Citizens Can Tell You all About It.

Home endorsement, the public expression of Louisa people, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Louisa reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in faraway places. Read the following:

Mrs. Rebecca Lewis, Franklin St., Louisa, Ky., says: "If there is any way in which I can bring the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to the notice of other kidney sufferers, I am only too glad to do it. For a long time I suffered from various symptoms of kidney complaint, and although I tried a number of remedies I did not succeed in finding relief. Doan's Kidney Pills, however, gave me complete freedom from these troubles. They banished the dull ache in my back, strengthened my kidneys and bladder and removed the other symptoms. Doan's Kidney Pills have greatly improved my health and I have every confidence in them."

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

A Column Dedicated To Tired Mother As They Join The Home Circle At Evening Tide.

If we see no good in others they will likely see but little in us.

The time which a boy spends at his mother's knee is never forgotten by the man.

A woman's first duty is to her home and children—a duty that cannot wisely be delegated to another.

The boy who takes his hat off when he enters the house is the one who usually has his hair combed and his face clean, and the girl or boy who says "please" and "thank you" is always prettier than the one who forgets these things. Just look around and see if this is not true.

There are many housekeepers who work sixteen hours a day, while three or four healthy, active boys stand around and watch her. They cannot help her because housework is girl's work, and they cannot lower their standard of American manhood. A little reform would work for good in more ways than one in all such cases.

It isn't enough to believe that "every cloud has a silver lining," and then sit down and wait for the lining to reveal itself. We can, if we will, take the X ray of determination, and pierce the cloud and find its bright side. We can, if we will, control our moods, shake off depression and drive away "the blues." Think of the good the gods give and be happy.

The family sitting room should be the best and most luxurious room in the house. Here the family gather to read and talk and enjoy themselves as they can nowhere else. It should be well lighted, well ventilated, and well warmed. The old fashioned way of putting the best and prettiest of everything into the parlor and then shutting out the air and sunlight to the furniture from spoiling is a stupid senseless and wicked fashion.

DANGEROUS GIFT.

Beauty is a dangerous gift. It is ever so. Like wealth, it has ruined its thousands. Thousands of the most beautiful women are destitute of common sense and common humanity. No gift from heaven is so general as the gift of beauty. In about nine cases in ten it makes her silly, senseless, thoughtless, giddy, vain, proud, frivolous, selfish, low and mean. We think we have seen more girls spoiled by beauty than by any other one thing. "She is beautiful and she knows it," is as much as to say she is spoiled. A beautiful girl is very likely to believe she was made to be looked at; and so she sets herself up for a show at every window, in every door, every corner of the street, in every company at which opportunity offers for an exhibition of herself. And believing and acting thus, she soon becomes to be good for nothing else, and when she comes to be a middle aged woman she is that weakest, most sickening of all human things—a faded beauty.

POOR GIRLS.

The poorest girls in the world are those not taught to work. There are thousands of them. Rich parents have petted them and they have been taught to despise labor and to depend upon others for a living, and are perfectly helpless. The most forlorn women belong to this class. It is the duty of parents to protect their daughters from this deplorable condition. They do them a great wrong if they neglect it. Every daughter should be taught to earn her own living. The rich as well as the poor require this training. The wheel of fortune rolls swiftly around; the rich are likely to become poor, and the poor rich. Skill added to labor is no disadvantage to the rich, and is indispensable to the poor. Well-to-do parents must educate their daughters to work. No reform is more imperative than this.

THE BOYS.

Mothers train your boys to be neat in the house. They should be taught to look after themselves, and to keep their hats and coats in their proper places. Teach them this habit, and you will save many annoyances, and you will also do a kindness to the boys by teaching them neatness and self respect.

Boys, as well as girls, should be taught to help in the house. How often we have been disgusted to see that the girls are made to help with the house-work while the boys are allowed to play checkers, or sit at the fire toasting their toes.

A boy can help clear away after a meal, sweep the floor, polish the stove.

or wash the dishes, just as effectively as a girl. He, as a rule, is stronger. He will love his home more, and when he becomes a man, and has a home of his own, he will respect his wife all the more for having been taught to respect his mother and sisters.

LET US STOP TO THINK.

Let us stop to think of the good-by kiss. Better miss a car than leave a headache.

Let us stop and think of the children. We, too, were children once, and loved to be remembered.

Let us stop to think of the aged. For us, too, the evening shadows will close at length, and we shall, perchance, be left to desolate hearthstones. We shall need to be remembered then.

Let us stop to think of the stranger. We, too, have been alone, and have needed the touch of a kindly hand. It is on our lives, and many a life has run out in blackness of darkness for the lack of such a touch as anyone of us might have given.

Let us stop to think of God and the future. At best the time is short, and the end is near. And when it shall come, blessed will be he to whom the entrance into a new life will be but the realization of dear and familiar dreams of consummation of a lifetime of longings. Let us stop and think. If there be any virtue, if there be any praise, let us stop to think upon these things.
